At its most basic level, the finance functions ensure the effective management of funds for an organization and help it to stay competitive, or in other words, financially healthy. The MBA in finance equips the students with strong analytical and problem-solving skills and an ethical mindset. It imparts conceptual knowledge of portfolio management, financial markets, regulatory environment, international finance, financial services, and corporate strategy to facilitate decision-making.

Marketing Management

Comprehensive coverage of theories, case studies along living examples forms the subject matter of the domain at large. Consumer behavior, salesforce management, advertisement and other such concepts are discussed through various methods of teaching. And there is no denying the fact that at the start of the placement season, recruiters have a penchant for this specialization.

Human Resource Management

The ultimate assets of a business enterprise need to be efficiently handled. Compensation management, industrial relations, corporate governance, talent acquisition, and labour laws' lessons are imparted to the potential future change agents! An integrated mentorship program is instituted wherein junior batch students are mentored by senior batch students. Short-films on issues such as grievance handling, Work-life Balance, Performance Appraisal, etc. are prepared to enhance the domain knowledge in groups.

Production and Operations Management

The newest offering in the line-up is at par with the level and quality of education in the other three domains. Study of material management, advanced operations research, logistics, supply chain management, production process makes students ready for on-floor execution. Smooth functioning at a manufacturing facility is attained only with sound technical knowledge and how students strive exactly for that.

At FMS, it's not just about classroom learning, the approach is holistic and the faculties make sure that students get enough practical exposure in terms of industrial visits, presentations, guest lectures and seminars. The different specialization clubs of FMS enable a smooth transition from a general perspective of management, to a specific one. Each domain has its own club, and students share knowledge, learn interpersonal skills, and make the best use of their past time at college with various activities like group discussions, quizzes, group projects, mock interviews and much more.

It's true that some leaders are born, but it's also true that leaders can be made, with the right guidance and self-motivation. That is what we try to achieve with all the resources at our disposal.

Basic Objective

- The academic clubs are functional groups that encourage the members to explore the management routines, skills, and areas that they want to make a career in, through a lot of activities.
- These clubs aim to develop an overall competency by conducting regular exercises like quiz, newspaper analysis, field trips, seminars, guest lectures, and much more.

Four Clubs of FMS (under aegis of MSF)

Functions of Clubs

- Helping members to expand their knowledge and skills in their respective elected domain.
- Help students to gain practical exposure apart from the academic curriculum. This shall include live projects, seminars, group projects, and internships.
- Conceptual clarity with regards to the topics that they wish to learn apart from their curriculum.
- Grooming members with interpersonal skills for a better tomorrow.

Working Methodology for the Clubs

- Regular sharing of concepts, notes, current affairs, jargon, articles and discussion on it.
- Organizing Events, Workshops and quizzes for all domains.
- Guest Lectures and Webinars.
- Group Case Studies.
- Discussion and Analysis of current market scenarios.
- Mentorship programs with the help of corporate experts and Alumni.
- Group Project and Assignments.
- Practical exposure with live projects.
- Grooming sessions for interpersonal skills and holistic development of the students.

MSF Flagship Programme - YUVANTAS

YUVANTAS is the annual flagship event of FMS - Baroda that encompasses students as well as corporate participation. With the primary purpose of bridging the gap between students and corporate giants, it is the National Short Film making and Management Concept event.

Filmato and CSR VidFest have been the salient features. This year the event went bigger and better with addition of games in each of the domains i.e. Finance, Marketing, Human Resource and Operations. 600+ participants from a total of 14 colleges in and around Gujarat showcased their talent. The event was covered by major media houses like NDTV, ABP News, Times of India, Sandesh and Divya Bhaskar. The two-day extravaganza is a perfect mix of management related tasks along with a surprise round to make things competitive for the teams participating. There are talk shows, industry interactions, and cultural program to make the event fruitful for everyone.

There are MOUs also in respect of vibrant industry-academia interface which involves both national and international MOUs.

The student also gets exposure to different summits of Vadodara HR Forum, VCCI, CII, IIMM, Vibrant Gujarat, etc.

All the festive events also take place with the prospect of improving and getting exposure to challenges while organizing them and planning them successfully.
