At its most basic level, finance ensures the effective management of funds for an organization and helps it to stay competitive or, in other words, financially healthy. The MBA in finance equips students with strong analytical and problem-solving skills and an ethical mindset. It imparts conceptual knowledge of portfolio management, financial markets, regulatory environment, international finance, financial services, and corporate strategy to facilitate decision-making.

HUMAN RESOURCE MANAGEMENT

The ultimate assets of a business enterprise need to be efficiently handled. Compensation management, industrial relations, , talent acquisition, and labor laws' lessons are imparted to the potential future change agents!
